CHAPTER I

INTRODUCTION

This chapter deals with background, explanation about the problem statements, objective of the research, significant of the research, and scope of the research.

A. Background

In today's world, English mastery is vital skill that will help the students achieve their full potential in later life. From that context, the Indonesian government has decided English as one of the compulsory subjects that should be taught as a foreign language for the students of elementary school up to university.

However, Indonesian students face some difficulties in learning English is caused by language interference. As Haycraft (1978) stated that there are various skills in mastering language: receptive skill which includes listening (understanding the spoken language), reading (understanding the written language), and productive skills which includes speaking and writing. The reading skill became very important in the education field. Students need to be exercised and be trained in order to have a good reading skill.

Because reading is also something crucial and indispensable for the students because the success of their study depends on the greater part of their ability to read. If their reading skill is poor they are

Because of that reading is one of the basic communication skills. But it has a very complex process. It can be said that reading is a process in which reader finds information given by the written form.

However reading is an important skill of English. It is a source to get information given and the students can increase their vocabulary. No one can get much information without reading. Reading is the easiest way to get information.

It is very important for every student because of the reading, we can get much source of information because information is very important for improving the skill of students. By reading students will obtain various information that have not previously obtained. Therefore, reading is a window of the world, anyone who opens the window to see and know everything that happened. Both events happened in the past, present and even future.

Reading comprehension understands a text that is read, or the process of "constructing meaning" from a text. Comprehension is a "construction process" because it involves all of the elements of the reading process working together as a text is read to create a representation of a text in the reader's mind.

Thinker and Mc Cullough (1975 : 23) stated that reading as a form of communication such as television, radio, and motion pictures have their value along with certain information. It has distinct advantages over than the other means of communication as follow :

1. The thought of the printed materials provides the clear and most varied records of human experience and attainment available.
2. In searching for clear understanding and sound conclusion. A reader can pause, reflect and study as often as reader wish. Reader can weight and deliberate at will.
3. Simply by running to other books we may obtain the variety of information and find out what the judgment of experts on difficult problems are.
4. Reading tends to be more efficient method of securing information than other means of communication at least two respects :
 - a. Even on average and certainly one who is better than average, can pause printed material three to four times as fast as a person can talk intelligibly.
 - b. Most creative minds in human history are there for any reader who is willing to go in searching of them.

So it is wise decision that reading has distinct advantages over than the other means of communication, since reading is the easiest and fastest way to access science and technology. By reading students will get or gain new experience exploring beyond space and time facts, knowledge, information, dreams and desires can be revealed.

The purpose of reading in many languages is to inform ourselves about something the students are interested in, or to challenge certain our methods. In the other words, to extent our experience of the word in which they live. A person must read well if he wants to broad his experience, and solve challenge problems.

At junior high school, English is taught as one of the compulsory subjects and even up to the university. The students are expected to be able to get skill in reading, speaking, listening, writing, so that they can communicate with the other people from different countries.

The nature of reading is not merely reading the text though line. A reader has to bring into the text to comprehend what is read. Cooper (1986 : 4) stated that to comprehend the written word a reader must be able to:

1. Understand what an author has structure of organized the ideas and information presented in the text.
2. Relate the ideas and information from the text to ideas information stored in his or her mind.

The technique of teaching English is to develop especially to improve th reading. Because the technique or teaching influences the students' success, so the teacher of English should select the suitable method or technique to teach the students.

The lack of interest of the students to read English may be due to the methods and techniques that are not suitable for the students needs or students interest. It can be the serious problems for the students. As the result the students have low motivation in reading english. They are not enthusiastic in reading English.

Realizing such problems, the teacher can attract the students attention to read English through English comic.

Willian P. Godfrey (1953-227), defines that the teacher as humorist and the comic spirit in the class room. In fact, the seriousness of the medium varies widely. The teacher can motivate students to be came book lovers because comic book are an excellent resource for learning English. These books teach not only vocabulary, they also teach conversation, everyday language in use, and current colloquial words.

Comic book can help and motivate the students with weak English. The comic books help the students to develop good reading skill. Students with limited English at the same time. The simplicity of comic books would help to build their confidence in their English and graphic novels can be as word as some regular books.

Base on the background above, the writer tries to make research by the topic "The students' Interest in English Reading English Adventure Comic a case study at the eight grade students at SMP Negeri 8 Makassar in academic year 2012/2013.

B. Problem Statement

After looking at the explanation above the writer formulates problem statements as follow : "How is the students' improving in reading English through adventure comic?"

C. Objective of the Research

The objectives of this research are to explain the students' improving in reading English comic.

D. Significance of the Research

The results of this research are expected to be useful and helpful information for the teacher in general, in order to improve the quality of English teaching also the students being interest in reading English material or literature.

E. Scope of the Research

The scope of the research is restricted to the improving of the students in reading English adventure comic entitle " Donald duck comic" The interest of comic book is looked by the story.

CHAPTER II

REVIEW OF RELATE LITERATURE

A. Some Pertinent Ideas

1. Definition of Reading

Smith and Robinson (1980 : 8) define that reading comprehension means understanding, evaluating, utilizing of information and ideas gained through and interaction between the author and the reader.

Mansur (2000 : 23) define reading as active cognitive process of interaction with print and monitoring comprehension of establish meaning, the readers from a preliminary expectation about the material, the select, the fewest, most productive cues necessary to confirm or reject this expectation. This is a sampling process in which the reader takes adventure of this knowledge of vocabulary, syntax, and discourse.

Cooper (1986 : 12) states that reading is a developmental task: reading change from what primarily considered word recognition, through development of sight and meaning vocabulary and several methods of word attack, through different type of comprehension, to nature acts involving most of the higher mental process.

Harmer (1991 : 190) states that reading is an exercise dominated by the eyes and brain. The eyes receive messages and the brain than has to work out the significance of those messages.

Reading is an interactive between what a reader already knows about given topic or subject and what the writer writes.

From the quotes above can be concluded that reading is an activity to extract information which the readers want to derive from the point whether it is on a piece of paper on in many other media. Reading is an activity characterized by the translation of the symbols, letter, who word the sentences that have meaning into individual.

2. Type of Reading

Allin (1980 : 37) indicated the types of reading are important categories as follows :

a. Skimming

The eyes run quickly, over the text to discover what is about the main idea and the gist. This skimming occurs when the reader looks quickly at the contents page of a book, or at the chapter headings, subheadings, etc. this sometimes called previewing. When the reader goes through a particular passage such as a new newspaper article merely to get the gist.

b. Scanning

The reader is to look out for a particular item he believes in the text. The scanning can be done to find name, date, static, or facts in writing. The eyes start quickly at the lines of writing.

c. Intensive reading

It is also called study reading, this involves close study of the text. As the amount of comprehension should be high, the speed of reading is correspondingly slower.

Based on the quotes above, the researcher concludes that there are three types of reading skill. Those are essential for the students to read story or passage easily.

3. Kinds of reading

There are three kinds of reading that, the writer will explain kinds of reading. They are reading aloud, silent reading, and speed reading.

Allin (1980 : 42) states that there are three kinds of reading namely :

a. Reading Aloud

Reading aloud is very important devices cannot in achievement the goal because aid and developing our habit to practice. In reading aloud the students will get experience in producing sound that be practiced as many times as possible to practice. Reading aloud is separate and distinct from the objectives of pronunciation and auditory memory focused upon in choral practice, dialogue memorization and pattern practice. By reading aloud the students can improve their mistakes in pronunciation, intonation and through reading they can increase their vocabulary.

b. Silent reading

Silent reading tends to reinforce the reader to find out the meaning of the words. This kind of reading skill to criticize what is written to discuss something written means to draw inference and conclusion as well as to express a new idea on the basis of what is read. By silent reading is second kind of reading. Among the important ones, that will be discussed here is comprehension that secret of successful silent lesson, to maintain the pupils interests at all time, constant variation in techniques goes to way to achieving this. During silent reading is sample material for the teacher to vary their approach from lesson to lesson.

Silent reading is a skill to criticize what is written. To discusses something written means to draw inference and conclusion as well as to express a new idea on the basis of what is read.

c. Speed reading

This kind of reading to improve speed and comprehension in reading. This skill of speed reading must run side with the main purpose of reading that is comprehension. The skill of speed reading must run side by side with the main purpose of reading.

There are many kinds of speed reading which depend on the difficulty of the material being read as well as the students own ability sand knowledge background. The rate of speed reading a story will be different from reading scientific material.

4. Comprehension

Comprehension as it is currently viewed as a process by which reader construct by interacting with the text (Anderson and pearson, 1984 : 255 – 291). The understanding a reader achieves during reading comes from the accumulated experience of the reader, experiences that are triggered as the reader decodes the author, words, sentences, paragraph, and ideas. Niles (1980 : 60) defines comprehension as a process of integrating new sentences with antecedent information in extra essential structure. Form the definition above, the researcher can conclude that comprehension is understood of the content and the idea of that passage. Knowing what the author wants to tell their readers.

5. Definition of reading comprehension.

Those are some definition of reading comprehension which has been proposed by some experts. Alexander (1988 : 37) defines reading comprehension as 'interaction between thought and language.

Smith and Robinson (1980 : 59) define that reading comprehension means the understanding utilizing of information and gained through an interaction between reader and author and reader in which the written language becomes the medium. Adam and Bertram (1980 : 83-84) points out reading comprehension is an interactive process between the text and the reader prior knowledge.

Cunningham (2000 : 45) states that lack of comprehension of a given passage may be accounted for in at least three ways that are:

- a. The reader does not have appropriate schemata;
- b. The clues provided by the author are not sufficient to suggest the appropriate schemata;
- c. The reader find a consistent interpretation is not intended by the author.

According to Smith and Robinson (1980 : 124-125) reading comprehension depend on many factors :

- a. The reader's ability to attend the printed idea ;
- b. The reader's background knowledge to which new information must be added;

- c. The quality to lucidity writing itself;
- d. The reader's purpose of goal in reading material.

Based on the information above the researcher conclusion of reading comprehension is understand of the text idea where in reading there are some interaction between teacher and students in classroom activity.

B. Factors Affecting Reading Comprehension

In reading comprehension there are many factors influences to compared reading test. Smith (1980 : 66) devided the factors into five categories namely :

1. Background experience. It refers in previous experiences that the readers have already known before and it relates to the reading materials that they read.
2. Language ability. If refer to the reader's ability in mastering some elements of language. For example : vocabulary, transition, words, grammar, etc.
3. Thinking ability. It refer to the reader's ability to analyze the reading material that they read by considering some comprehension aids to support their achievements in comprehension.
4. Affection. It refers to some psychological factors that can affect the reader's comprehension. The factors are interest, motivation, attitudes, beliefs and feeling.

5. Reading purpose. It refers to the reader's purpose way they read the material. It is usually done by making some question before reading process. The question will be stepping stone to get comprehension.

C. Level of Reading Comprehension

According to Muhammad Rasyid (1997 : 64) there are three levels of comprehension namely :

1. The first level, literal comprehension is the most obvious.

Comprehension at this level involves surface meaning. At this level, teacher can ask the students to find information and ideas that are explicitly stated in the text. In addition, it is also appropriate to test vocabulary. Being able to read for literal meanings ideas is influence by one's mastery of word meaning.

2. The second level or stand interactive or inferential comprehension.

At this level students go beyond what is said and read or deeper meaning in the reading comprehension. They must be able to read critically and analyze carefully what they have read in the paragraph. Students head to able to see relationship among ideas and paragraph.

3. Finally, the third level of comprehension is critical reading or applied reading where by ideas and information is evaluated.

Mohammad (1999: 73) critical evaluation occurs only after our students have understood the ideas about information that the writer has presents. At this level, students can be tasted on the following skills:

- a. The ability to differentiate between facts and opinions.
- b. The ability to recognize persuasive statements
- c. The ability to judge the accuracy of the information given in the text.

Although comprehension takes places at several levels, mastery at any one level is not a prerequisite to comprehension at another level. Furthermore, the reading skills for each level or standard cut across ages, they are relevant to young readers in primary school, secondary school students right up to students at tertiary level. Teacher also need to keep in mind that there levels are not distinct. Dividing comprehension into literal. Inferential, and critical stand is only intended as a guided for teacher when preparing reading assessments.

From the quotes above that there are three levels in reading comprehension that the teacher should know of those levels before teaching reading for his/her students.

D. Comic books

A comic book is defines as a booklet of words and pictures integrated into a flexible and powerful printed format (witek 1989 : 3) according to the definition of comics at the DC's web page, variously referred to comics, comic strips and comic books, the comics format as we know it today is a unique art form and literary medium that originated in the U.S. in the late 180s.... At its simplest, a comic is a series of words and pictures that is presented in a sequential manner to form a narrative.

Comic book uses everyday language in dialogue balloons to communicate a point quickly and directly (1944 : 221) by using a series or sequence of pictures, a cast of characters that the audience can relate to, and lots of dialogue and text within the picture, the creators of comic books draw their readers to their creation (1971 : 21). Writers and illustrators tend to use stereotypes of basic characters and clichés to express their meaning (Gerberg 1983 : 38).

Even though the comic book picture emphasizes the words and dialogue of the characters, it's the relationship between the words and the pictures that says so much more (McCloud 1993:47;faust 1971:195) writer will use idioms, puns and slang to related to the everyday individual Comic Book are a form of narrative fiction and so they have a plot, characters, setting, dialogue, and symbolism.

1. Description of Comic Books

Comic Books are basically 32 page periodicals about 7 " X 10" in size. Each of the 32 pages are divided into approximately 2 X4 or 3 X3, in a 32 page book, the number of panels can add up to anywhere from 90 to 200 (Pellowski 1995 : 44, Feury), "Each story is made up of a certain number of panels, and each panels holds one illustration" (Busiek). The size of the panel reflect the conception of time. Small panels illustrate time as going by quickly and large panels makes time look like it is taking a longer amount of time (Busek).

The splash page is the first full page panel that also has the title of the story and credits the author, artist, penciller, and inker. Traditional, this was the first panel is also gerrally used to set up the scene (Busek;Pollowski 1995:41). The rest of the comic book can consist of one of one long story, several shorter short stories, or one long story broken into pars. The format must reflect the story.

E. Problem in Reading English Comic

Language is the main problem that students face in reading English comic, if they do not understand the text and enjoy reading it. Therefore, the text should not be too difficult either linguistically on conceptual level. It is then the teacher's responsibility experiencing the comic book concerned. One way to do this is to pre each the vocabulary and culture items, so that when the students read the comic concerned, they can understand and appreciated it.

According to Pearson (1980) in the reading process we usually faced some differentiates, namely:

1. Habit of Regression

One habit to avoid in reading is that of "Going back your track". Almost everyone reads in this way, the readers sometimes and return the passage this habit is allowed.

2. Word by word reading

The reader who reads word by word may provide himself a handicap or read black to understand meaning rapidly.

3. Poor concentration

Concentration is extremely important in affective reading. The reader cannot submerge himself completely in reading process if he is poor or less concentration in reading consequently.

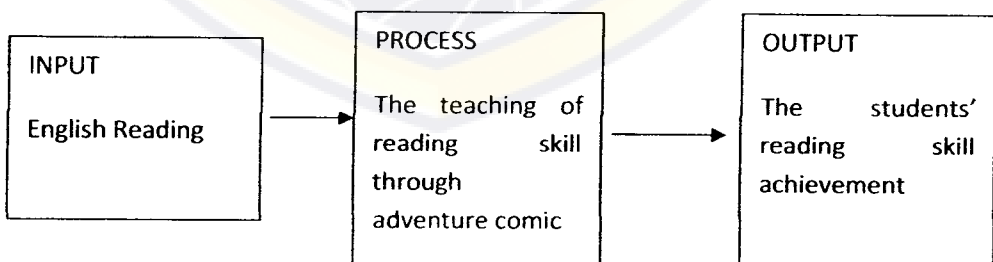

F. Hypothesis

Related to the previous explanation, the writer formulated the hypothesis as follows :

- Students' reading comprehension of the second year of SMP Negeri 8 Makassar can improve by applying adventure comic.

G. Conceptual Framework

The conceptual framework of this research is illustrated as follow :

The main components above are described as follows :

1. Input refers to material that is applied.
2. Process refers to teaching reading skill through adventure comic.
3. Output refers to the achievement of the students in reading comic.

CHAPTER III

RESEARCH METHOD

This chapter deals with research method and design, variables of the research, population and sample, instrument of the research, procedure of collecting data, and technique of data analysis.

A. Research Method and Design

In this research, the writer employed a pre-experimental method with one group pre-test and post-test design. This design involved one group, which was pre-test (O_1), then exposed to treatment (X), and post-test (O_2).

The formula is presented as follow :

Pre – test	Treatment	Post-test
O_1	X	O_2

Where :

O_1 : Pre – test

X : treatment

O_2 : post-test

(Gay, 2006 : 225)

B. Variable of the Research.

The variable of this research were reading comprehension ability as the dependent variable and adventure comic strategy as the independent variable.

C. Population and Sample

1. Population

The population of this research was students the eight class at SMP Negeri 8 Makassar 2012/2013 academic year. The totals of population are 272 students which consist of eight classes.

2. Sample

The sampling technique in this research was purposive sampling. The purposive sampling mean that the writer choose directly which one of the sample class to make the research. The writer took one class of eight classes at SMP Negeri 8 Makassar, namely class VIIIA. The total samples were 37 students.

D. Instruments of the Research

The instrument of the research was a set of reading comprehension test. The consists of reading passage. Reading passage consists of several multiple choice questions. Comprehension was measured by asking students to choose one out of several alternative answers.

E. Procedure of Collecting Data

In collecting data, the writer follows the steps below:

1. First, the writer gave pre-test to know the students reading comprehension before giving the treatment, by using adventure comic strategy.
2. Second, the writer gave the treatment for third meeting to the students by using adventure comic strategy.
3. The third, the writer was gave the post-test. In the post-test the writer was distrusted the reading comprehension test. In the test the students are ask to answer multiple choice questions. This test is aim to see the students comprehension of students after having the treatment.

F. Technique of Data Analysis

The collecting data through the test used inferential static percentage score was also used to know the students ability. The steps undertaken in quantitative analysis employing the following formula :

1. Scoring the students correct answer of pre-test and post-test

$$\text{Score} = \frac{\text{Students correct answer}}{\text{Total number if item}} \times 100$$

(Sudjana : 2008 : 144)

2. Classifying the score of the students answer into the following scale:

- a. 9.6 to 10 is classified as excellent.
- b. 7.6 to 9.5 is classified as good.
- c. 6.6 to 7.5 is classified as fairly good.
- d. 5.6 to 6.5 is classified as fair.
- e. 3.6 to 5.55 is classified as poor.
- f. 0 to 3.5 is classified as very poor.

3. Classifying the score of the students answer :

Classification	Score	Indicator
Excellent	9.6-10	Makes few (if any) able errors of reading
Good	7.6-9.5	The way to read rather the same with native speaker.
Fairly good	6.6-7.5	Understand most of what is read understand of what is read but at lowers than normal understand of what is read.
Fair	5.6-6.5	Little understand of what is read
Poor	3.6-5.55	Has great difficulty following what is read, understand with frequent repetition
Very poor	0 – 3.5	Cannot be read event in simple reading.

(Rusdi, 2005 : 286)

4. Findings the improvement of the students, the writer compares of pre-test and post-test by using the following way :

The formula of mean score :

$$X = \frac{\sum X}{N}$$

Where : X = Mean score

$\sum x$ = The sum of all the score

N = The number of sample

(Gay, 2006 : 298)

5. Finding out the significant between the pre-test and post- test by calculating the value of the post-test. The following formula is employed :

The formula of Post- test

$$t = \frac{D}{\sqrt{\frac{\sum D^2 - \frac{(\sum D)^2}{N}}{N(N-1)}}$$

Where :

t = test of significance

D = deviation

$\sum D$ = standard deviation

N = number of students

l = constant number

(Gay, 2006 : 331)

CHAPTER IV

FINDING AND DISCUSSION

This chapter consists of two parts. There are the presentations of the result that was found in field and discussion that explain and interprets the finding in the second section.

Include the explanation of problem faced by students in using adventure comic strategy to change the students' reading comprehension as a result observation.

A. Findings

In this section, the writer described the result of data analysis based on the problem statement in the pre – test and post- test in the research place for caculating in the data analysis, how many students can improve with adventure comic method.

The result of data analysis was found that teaching reading through adventure comic strategy improves the reading comprehension of the student was thought adventure comic strategy could be seen in the following table about the students' improvement in reading comprehension throught adventure comic in the learning process.

Table 1 : The students Score and Classification in Pre- test

No	Initial of the students	Pre – test	Classification

$$\% = 11,96 \%$$

To know the significant between t-test and t-table for analysis for reading test the writer used formula are as follow :

$$t = \frac{D}{\frac{\sqrt{\sum D^2 - \frac{(\sum D)^2}{N}}}{N(N-1)}}$$

$$X_1 = 294$$

$$X_2 = 329$$

$$\sum D = 43$$

$$\sum D^2 = 119$$

$$D = \frac{\sum D}{N} = \frac{43}{37} = 1,2$$

$$t = \frac{\frac{43}{37}}{\frac{\sqrt{37(119) - (43)^2}}{37(37 - 1)}} \cdot \sqrt{37}$$

$$t = \frac{1,162}{\frac{\sqrt{4403 - 1849}}{37(36)}} \cdot \sqrt{37}$$

$$t = \frac{1,162}{\frac{\sqrt{2554}}{\sqrt{1332}} \cdot 6,083}$$

$$t = \frac{1,162}{\frac{\sqrt{1.917}}{6,083}}$$

$$t = \frac{1,162}{\frac{1,385}{6,083}}$$

$$t = \frac{1,162}{0,228}$$

Maybe that isn't a model car, but it's probably got pedals! Har! Har!

Hey, neighbor! What gave you the idea you could enter a race for real cars?

Laugh all you like! We'll see who's laughing when I take the prize home!

Gentlemen, start your engines! Three, two, one... GO!
